Afgelopen zaterdagavond tussen 21:30 en 23:30 is er ingebroken bij Jane en Tim Cavanagh, Galerij 33. Hier hun relaas:

Dear neighbours,

Just to let you know that last night (Saturday) between the hours of 21:30 and 23:30 we were burgled.

The thieves broke into our house by a back door having used some sort of tool to break the locks. They took small items such as cash, credit cards and jewellery but left large items such as TV's and computers.

Happily we are OK and our friend's dog is also OK even though whoever did this locked him in the garage. The police and forensic teams have visited and we are changing our locks today.

We are leaving you this note just to let you know that no matter how safe our lovely little area of Naarderbos appears to be, we still have unwanted visitors. The police inform us that it has been at least 4 years since they last had to visit anyone here but it is to become complacent as we did, about how secure our property and possessions are. We are, unfortunately, proof that you can never be too careful in locking your doors and windows.

We hope you continue to enjoy your bank holiday,
